The Russian agents along the shores of the rigid discipline which existed in the Czars army here that the Russian State Department quote Stockholm press despatches as authority for this announcement.

"We have been reaching tary plan it is said that the Red Guan will be abolished."

It is reported that the Bolsheviki German commissions who have been offering the terms of the Brast-Litov treaty agreed on all the main points of the agreement.

Officially point out that one of the basic doctrines of the Bolsheviks before the Germans openly demolished some of their leaders was the abolition of militarism in the armies. Distinctions between officers and men virtually were abolished; hundreds, if not thousands, of Russian officers were murdered by their own troops. That the Russian Bolshevik doctrine of making the entire military establishment an anarchistic

Abolishes Socialist Sham.

News now that Lenin proposes establishment of the strict military discipline that the Bolsheviks created in Russia is coincident with reports received here that German officers and German troops have begun to arrive in Moscow. "The establishment of rigorous military discipline in the German army," says the Sham, "is the exact opposite of the sham socialist theories which Lenin used with good effect toward rendering Russia powerless as a military power." The Sham adds that the troops assigned between Germany and the Bolsheviks,

If Lennine is determined to carry out in place there still remains an element of doubt as to whether the soldiers will submit to it, according to officials here.

Reports from Moscow indicate widespread disorders, with the jails crowded and public buildings being used as jails. In pursuance of Lennine's reported military policy, the following is stated:

"The Brest-Litovsk treaty, how could this treaty be taken into consideration in the affairs of the Caucasus, seeing that the Russian Government has not been able to return to us, in accordance with the treaty, our eastern frontier and that in the Caucasus the Bolsheviks are not only not the Bolsheviks entirely independent of the Bolshevik Government have arisen."

Lieut. John A. Cromelin of the Twelfth Field Artillery has written home to his mother, who lives at 400 River street, Hackensack, N. J., an account of the engagement of June 11, in which he was five times wounded by German machine gun fire. The Lieutenant says that he was not badly hurt, but his name occurred yesterday in the casualty list as "severely wounded."

Lieut. Cromelin fought through the attack of June 5 until he was wounded on the night of the sixth day, and said the work done by the marines was wonderful. He was taken to a hospital and was dictated from a hospital at Vichy, France, on June 15. He is 27 years old.

Arrives at Aid Station.

"The corporal helped to dress my wounds when we thought we had gotten safely away from the machine gun, and then we went on to a dressing station. Three days later I arrived at Vichy."

Enclosed with the letter were some notes made hastily during the busy days of the attack. He told of meeting a French flying officer who had been shot down three times in three days without injury to himself and little damage to his machine.

Word that their son, Lieut. Paul Daly of the Eighteenth Infantry, had been wounded in France a second time was received by the soldier's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Daly of 31 East Forty-ninth street, yesterday. Lieut. Daly was wounded last May, but subsequently returned to duty.

Yesterday's casualty lists included the names of several more New York boys, and indicated that the Empire Division, commanded by Major-Gen. John F. O'Ryan, has been under fire.

last September. He sailed for France last March as a member of Company B, 192d Machine Gun Battalion, and was wounded in action on July 14. Gutterman lived with his parents at 180 Jefferson street, Brooklyn, and was a printer. According to a letter received by his mother about four weeks ago Gutterman had not then been in action, but declared he was looking forward to the day and that "it couldn't come too soon for him."

Wounded. Since going abroad his family has moved, according to neighbors, to a Manhattan address.

Lieut. Charles E. Walton, 23, son of Edward E. Walton, supervising principal of the Springfield, N. J., high schools, is reported as in a hospital at Rouen, France, suffering from wounds received while on scout duty. His father received a cablegram yesterday from the British Air Ministry, as Lieut. Walton is attached to the Twenty-third Squadron, Royal Flying Corps. He joined the Canadian forces in July, 1917, and has the German Emperor's military cabinet, succeeding Lieut.-Gen. Baron Moritz von Lynckor, who has retired because of his health.

Lieut.-Gen. Marshall has been one of the chiefs of a section of the Emperor's military cabinet. He was formerly aide-camp to Gen. de Langendorf.

Flight Cadet Dies in Accident.

LONDON, July 30.—Flight Cadet George Ruple Wallace of Washington, Pa., was killed in an airplane accident on July 26. He was serving with the British air force.

DO TAKE OVER WIRE FINANCES TO-NIGHT

One of the first orders to be issued by Postmaster-General Hurlison as wire director will be for the keeping of separate operating accounts from August 1. The order will provide that all operating moneys and balances on hand be aside for operating purposes. All of the finances and the accounting relations of the companies are to come under the city postmasters in first and second class offices. At the start the outlined in detail the operations of organization and gave assurance of the cooperation of the company and its deeds under Government control. It significant that no representative of Western Union Company was at a conference, though it is intimated that the company will probably be represented by a letter.

No drastic change of procedure will mark the inauguration of Government control of the country's wire communications at midnight to-night, according to officials of the larger telegraph and telephone companies. Neither does Postmaster Patten, who, according to the announcement of Postmaster-General Hurlison, will be in charge of the relaying of the new source of Government revenue and the disbursement of moneys, expect any immediate change in the conduct of the service.

He said he arrived from New York on a steamship, which, however, did not enter the port. Fearing it was returning to America he jumped overboard when the ship was two miles out and started to swim for the land. He was going strong, he said, when he was seized by a neck and hauled into a harbor patrol boat.

His tale failed to convince the Plymouth authorities that he was not a suspicious alien and they detained him here. Hamilton told the correspondent THE SUN that he hopes when he is released to join the American medical corps in France.

Hook was struck by lightning Friday afternoon in the storm that raged over the upper New Jersey coast. At 2 o'clock, according to passengers aboard at this port, aboard steamships in the South. They saw the flash over the gas bag and noted the hissing. They were not close enough to see if any one was in the basket. It is probable that, as in the case of a balloon destroyed in a storm recently at Gravesend Bay, the observers panicked when the storm was seen to be coming their way.

The following conference with the president to-day by Judge Husted, upon, Assistant Attorney-General, has handled the raincoat and other items.

President Wilson has taken a deep personal interest in the alleged frauds asked for all information bearing upon them. Assistant Attorney-General upon went over with him not only cases that have come to public notice.

The liner took a luckless plane and had a talk with ship's passenger forward and looked at the observer said it was but that the end of the latest type, he saved.

Government will take over and operate a number of big contracting companies which have either held up the Government or which have delivered material that does not meet specifications. That does not mean that all contracts cancelled without causing a short in supplies, besides causing a bad situation with the dispersal of ordered forces of trained men and equipment.

President Wilson, it is learned, is in the habit of vigorous action. He has no tolerance for those who are wallowing in Reports received here have reflected not only a distinct feeling of war weariness in Turkey, but a deep rooted conviction that the British had imposed upon by Germany and then left to face consequences without German help. The British campaign in Palestine, the progress of war events in Mesopotamia, where the British have repeatedly defeated the Turks, appear to have in-

It is understood here that certain strong Turkish factions have been indirectly seeking to spin out the United States Government with respect to the evacuating Turkey from German domination. A special Turkish mission is said to have been sent to Washington on this plan, but nothing further has been made known of it.
